

Japanese War Lords Approved Cannibalism

TOKIO. Sunday. — The Japanese High Command not only approved of cannibalism, but encouraged Jap troops in the jungle to eat the flesh of Allied dead.

This has been revealed by a Jap High Command order which was found in Tokio. It was circulated to Jap troops in the South-East Asia and South-West Pacific Areas, and instructed Jap officers to allow cannibalism, but warned that only Allied dead were to be eaten. The punishment for eating the flesh of dead comrades was death.
